J.D.M. Stewart is a Canadian history teacher at Bishop Strachan School. His writing has appeared in newspapers across Canada for more than 25 years.

His book, Being Prime Minister, was published June 2018. From John A. MacDonald to Justin Trudeau, we will get a glimpse of the prime ministers as they travelled, dealt with invasions of privacy, met with celebrities, and managed the stress of the nation's top job.

With a federal election a month after this talk, his behind-the-scenes look at the lives of prime ministers will be both timely and highly engaging.
